The staff at the Newbury Council has been hard at work researching programs to bring to our seniors via local cable access television on Channel 9. We have received very positive feedback about the exercise programs from Paula Pressler, Chris Howe, and Roots to Wings Yoga Studio and are very excited to be working with these instructors to bring new classes to you soon. In addition to exercise programs, we are bringing educational programming as well. Keep an eye out for shows full of useful information from The Alzheimer’s Association, The Registry of Motor Vehicles, and VNA Care.

Our Outdoor Coffee and Chat event in April was the first event we offered in an outdoor group setting. We are working on bringing more outdoor activities as the warm Summer weather arrives. Stay tuned!

We are always happy to hear from our seniors with ideas for programs you would like to see us offer. You can reach us at 978-462-8114. Call us any time!
Covid-19 Vaccine Updates

The Lower Merrimack Valley Regional Collaborative vaccination clinics are up and running! The collaborative is a partnership of nine communities: Amesbury, Georgetown, Groveland, Merrimac, Newbury, Newburyport, Rowley, Salisbury, and West Newbury. The Boards of Health, municipal leaders, and volunteers have been diligently working together to organize clinics locally as an alternative to the mass vaccination sites.

Clinics have already been held at Amesbury High School and the intention is to offer more clinics at The Perley School in Georgetown at the Senior and Community Center as well as the Town Hall Annex in West Newbury. The clinics are open to the public via the vaxfinder.mass.gov website. Links to these local clinics will also be available on the Town of Newbury website (www.townofnewbury.org) which provides a link to the Town of Amesbury’s website (who posts the clinics). Links are generally available on Wednesdays at 8am and 12pm for the upcoming weekend. Seniors should be sure to call the Council on Aging to get on our waitlist if you need assistance registering.

New Newsletter Look!

Have you noticed our new look? We are excited to announce that we have partnered with LPi as the new printer for our newsletter. LPi offers a higher quality printed newsletter that we feel the seniors of Newbury deserve. Beginning with our next issue, we will be offering a bimonthly 12 page color newsletter. This is the best method for us to share information with those we serve and we wanted to elevate our product. We offer our newsletter through numerous outlets: printed copies via US Mail, electronic copies via email, and all issues are also available on our website.

Theater Workshop, Workshop Arts Program

The Newbury Council on Aging is pleased to announce a new partnership with Workshop Arts Inc., home of Theater Workshop. This program will give the opportunity for students grades 3-12 to provide creative presentations for the seniors of Newbury.

The cast will be creatively bringing public service announcements to the people of Newbury on Cable Access Channel 9 in fun and unique ways that will make you laugh and provide you with important information on subjects such as Council on Aging services and upcoming events.

The students will also be performing Acts of Kindness, or "A-OKs." The group will perform shows in costume at the homes of seniors who the Council on Aging staff feel could use a cheerful visit. The children will also deliver a care package to the senior at the performance.

Thanks to Stacey Fix, Director of Theater Workshop, and all the participating students for this great partnership!
Elder Mediation

When Conflicts Arise: Mediation Can Help

Mediation is a non-adversarial process in which the parties in a dispute are supported by a neutral third party (the mediator). Together, they identify the disputed issues, develop options, and seek a fair agreement. The mediator has no advisory or decision-making authority.

Family issues are complicated and they are further complicated by the transitions in the changing lifestyles, relationships, and needs of the elder. Mediation enables elders and their families to positively resolve conflicts. In mediated family meetings, everyone has the opportunity to privately explore the needs and feelings of all involved and to deal rationally with the problems and issues under discussion outside of a courtroom with the problems and issues relevant to the situation at hand.

Mediation is inexpensive, time efficient, convenient, private, confidential, voluntary, non-judgmental, empowering, and effective.

Mediators are skilled in:
- working with families in conflict
- convening multi-party family mediations, and
- facilitating consensus

Mediation is an appropriate forum for resolving any conflict where the parties involved participate voluntarily in the confidential processes and are motivated to develop an agreement that improves their situation.

Mediation is recommended when:
- You have not succeeded in settling a conflict on your own
- You want to take an active role in the decision-making process
- You want to address relevant underlying issues
- You and the other party are willing to seek assistance from a mediator
- You want the option of maintaining a relationship with the other party

Issues that sometimes arise in the mediation process are such topics as living arrangements, daily living and assistance needs, care giving, driving, family communication, medical care, financial planning, estate planning, family real estate, and personal property distribution. Conversations around these issues can be emotionally charged and complex. Mediation lets you design realistic, workable solutions that preserve family relationships and day-to-day scheduling.

Mediated agreements are the result of shared decision-making. The process is cooperative, not adversarial, and leaves all decision making in the hands of the participants. As a result, mediated solutions are broad in scope and include all issues relevant to the parties involved.

If you find yourself dealing with issues related to an elder’s financial responsibilities, capacity to make important decisions, or arrangements regarding daily living and assistance needs, mediation may be the right path for you. For more information on the structured assistance of mediation, call Janet DelMare at the Newbury Council on Aging at 978-462-8114.
Thank You, Volunteers!

Councils on Aging across the country are effectively meeting the needs of seniors in their communities because of the work of volunteers. It has especially been evident this past year during the Covid-19 pandemic. The Newbury Council on Aging has been very fortunate to have several volunteers who have stepped up to provide services to seniors such as grocery shopping, delivering library materials, delivering meals, making weekly check-in phone calls, and preparing our newsletter for mailing. With the help of several NEET (Northern Essex Elder Transport) drivers, we have transported many residents to their Covid-19 vaccine appointments.

Additionally, the Newbury Council on Aging Board of Directors, The Friends of the Newbury Council on Aging, and the Expansion Committee Members have all donated a generous amount of their time for the betterment of the Newbury Council on Aging program. Just since the start of 2021, these volunteers have given over 100 hours of their time. We appreciate each and every volunteer’s efforts!

Are You Interested in Becoming a Volunteer?

Call us at 978-462-8114 and ask to speak with Karen. She can let you know the application process and opportunities that are available. We look forward to meeting you!
